Response to Amendment

The following is in response to the amendment filed on October 5, 2003

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 12 and 14-25 are allowed.

Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The claims are allowed because the claimed cellulose softening composition comprises the combination of 25-50% of a softening active ingredient and a bilayer disrupter which cooperates with an electrolyte to reduce the viscosity of a softening ingredient/vehicle dispersion. Prior art softening compositions are known to include salts for viscosity control, and some prior art softening compositions are known to include surfactants for maintaining the stability of a dispersion or for increasing the viscosity, but none of these compositions teach using a surfactant, particularly one that is a bilayer disrupter, to reduce the viscosity of dispersions having 25-50% of a softening active ingredient. Prior art compositions having such high levels of softening ingredient are formulated differently to control the viscosity.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to rejections based on Jenny et al (US 5,753,079) presented previously are persuasive. After reconsideration of the applied prior art, it is understood that the composition of Jenny does not comprise a bilayer disrupter as defined by the present invention, but instead comprises an additional softening active ingredient of lower viscosity. Applicant has provided sufficient evidence that the claimed bilayer disrupter reduces the viscosity of a dispersion of a softening agent and allows for using a higher percentage of softening agent than without the bilayer disrupter. Thus, the prior art does not teach the claimed composition.

This application is in condition for allowance except for the presence of claims 25-45 drawn to an invention non-elected with traverse. Applicant is given ONE MONTH or THIRTY DAYS from the date of this letter, whichever is longer, to cancel the noted claims or take other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144). Failure to take action during this period will be treated as authorization to cancel the noted claims by Examiner's Amendment and pass the case to issue. Extensions of time under 37 CFR 1.136(a) will not be permitted since this application will be passed to issue.

The prosecution of this case is closed except for consideration of the above matter.
